Verfahrensablauf

- As a rule, the registration office informs the Aliens' Registration Office about the birth of your child.
- The Aliens' Registration Office then initiates the procedure for issuing a residence permit for children born in Germany.

- The Foreigners' Registration Office then contacts you, as the parents of the child, and asks you to submit the documents necessary for the issuance of the residence permit.
- If a personal visit to the Aliens' Registration Office is necessary, the Aliens' Registration Office will contact you to arrange an appointment.
- If the Aliens' Registration Office does not issue the residence permit on its own initiative within six months after the birth of the child, you must apply to the Aliens' Registration Office for the issue of the residence permit before the six months have expired. To do this, find out whether your foreigners authority allows you to submit the application online or has a special application form. If the application can only be submitted in person, make an appointment at the Foreigners' Registration Office. In the case of online application, the Aliens' Registration Office will contact you after receiving your application to schedule an appointment.
- During the appointment, your identity and the identity of the child as well as your documents will be checked (please bring all documents, if possible in original, to the appointment).
- The procedure is usually conducted in German. If you do not have sufficient knowledge of German, it may be useful to attend with a person who can act as a translator.
- If the residence permit is granted, the Foreigners' Registration Office will order the production of an electronic residence permit (abbreviated to eAT card) from the Bundesdruckerei. After completion, you will receive information and can pick up the eAT card at the responsible office. The eAT card must always be collected in person.
- If you have submitted an application that is rejected by the Aliens' Registration Office, you will receive a rejection notice.
