partners are jointly assessed in accordance with the LPartG).

Please note: You cannot receive the employee savings allowance and a housing construction premium at the same time for capital-forming benefits VL (for example, when paying into a home savings contract). This rules out the possibility of double benefits. For this reason, the expenses incurred to promote housing construction must not be VL for which there is an entitlement to an employee savings allowance. If you are unable to apply for an employee savings allowance, for example because you exceed the income limits, the VL can be included in the application for a housing construction premium and taken into account in the determination.

There are no costs involved.

Verfahrensablauf

You must apply for the housing subsidy at your investment institution. To do so, use the form sent to you by your investment institution together with the annual account statement.

Procedure for home savings contracts The housing construction premium is only calculated and earmarked on a regular basis. The payment of the accumulated housing construction premiums to the building society - in favor of your building savings contract - is generally only made when the building savings contract is used for housing purposes.

Old contracts (concluded before January 1, 2009): In the case of payments into a baupar contract, the housing construction premium is only paid out when

- this contract has been allocated,
- the fixed period of 7 years since the contract was concluded has been exceeded, or
- the building savings contract has been disposed of in a non-detrimental manner.

If you use the accumulated credit balance for any other purpose within the 7-year definition period, you will no longer be entitled to the housing construction bonus.
