Teaser	If you wish to use public traffic areas for construction work or events, you must apply for a permit from the local road traffic authority.
Volltext	You must obtain a permit from the local road traffic authority for every measure in which you use and restrict the public traffic area. Such measures include • Road construction measures • the erection of scaffolding or the storage of building materials • removals • events You may only start the measures once you have been granted permission. You are responsible for informing the public about the measure. With the permit, the competent authority will specify in a traffic order • how you must cordon off and mark the work site, • whether and how you must restrict, direct and regulate traffic and • how you must mark any detour routes. On the one hand, these requirements ensure the safety of workers and road users. On the other hand, they ensure that traffic is not impaired more than necessary.
