Sachverhalt

naturalised alongside their parents, it is EUR 51.

The qualifying period for residence is reduced to 7 years if you have successfully participated in an integration course. The qualifying period for residence may be reduced to 6 years for people who have made an exceptional effort to integrate, such as demonstrating a command of the German language at or above level B2 in the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages, outstanding educational, vocational or professional achievement, or civic involvement.

Naturalisation candidates from EU Member States are not required to renounce their EU citizenship.

The application must be submitted to the naturalisation authority responsible for the naturalisation candidates place of residence.

If the naturalisation candidates habitual place of residence is outside Germany, naturalisation is possible only in exceptional cases where the candidate has links to Germany that justify naturalisation. In accordance with § 14 of the Nationality Act, this is at the discretion of the competent authority, and it must be established that naturalisation is in the public (national) interest.

The competent authority for naturalisation from abroad is the Federal Office of Administration. As a rule, applications must be submitted through the German diplomatic mission.
