- Proof of maintenance payments,
- Proof of interest and other investment income (e.g. savings accounts, fixed-term deposits, call money, building society savings contracts, funds); in particular tax certificates.

Other evidence (if available), for example

- Severely disabled person's pass and notification of care insurance benefits

Voraussetzungen

Whether and to what extent you can claim housing benefit depends on various factors: 1. how high is your total income? 2. how high is your rent or your monthly mortgage if you own your own home? 3. how many household members are there and what is their income?

1. total income: The total income is the sum of the annual incomes of all household members to be taken into account. Certain allowances and deductions for maintenance payments can be deducted from this. Income is calculated on the basis of taxable income, supplemented by tax-free income.

In each case, 10% must be deducted from this if, during the approval period

- Taxes on income
- Contributions to statutory health and long-term care insurance
- contributions to statutory pension insurance are paid. If all three payments listed are made, the deductible amount is 30%.

2. rent/monthly charge for ownership: Rent is the agreed payment for the use of living space on the basis of a rental agreement. Burdens for owners are the expenses for debt service and the management of the property. The basis for calculating the housing benefit is the gross rent. The rent does not include heating costs and costs for hot water. These are taken into account via a lump sum. Household electricity and payments for the use of a garage or parking space for motor vehicles are also not included. The rent or charge is only eligible up to certain maximum amounts. The maximum amounts depend on the local rent level, the so-called rent levels.

3. household members: Household members are the person entitled to housing benefit and certain other persons living in the home. The home must be the center of life for each of these persons. Household members who are excluded from housing benefit are not taken into account. You are excluded from housing benefit if you receive transfer benefits (other social benefits) that already include housing costs.

For example:

- Citizen's allowance or
- Basic income support in old age and in the event of reduced earning capacity.

Students and trainees living alone are also not entitled to housing benefit if they are entitled to BAföG or Berufsausbildungsbeihilfe (BAB). This also applies if BAföG or BAB was rejected because the parents' income was too high. For details, please contact the housing benefit authority responsible for you.
