Hinweise	Inclusion (joint teaching of pupils with and without special educational needs): Joint teaching means that pupils with and without special educational needs are taught together in one class. For the design of lessons, the teachers of the school visited receive support from special school teachers. For pupils with special educational needs in joint lessons, support agreements or support plans can be important in order to establish a learning connection and to enable the acquisition of school qualifications. The support takes place in the classroom through the task design and the encouragement. In addition, supplementary support measures can be offered within or outside the school, e.B through support hours or targeted exercise material, through supplementary support offers within the framework of school possibilities.
