Teaser	Have you been prohibited from practising your business because of unreliability? Then you can usually apply for the re-approval of your commercial activity after 1 year under certain conditions.
Volltext	As a rule, you can only apply for the re-approval of your business after 1 year. This period is required by law. It gives you the opportunity to show the authority through a change in lifestyle that the reasons for the unreliability have disappeared. For overriding reasons – for example, economic or structural policy – the exercise of the trade can exceptionally be re-authorised at an earlier stage. This applies, for example, in the event that the resumption of business <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• creates additional jobs, or</li> <li>• Allows creditors of your company to reduce debt.</li> </ul> The mere omission of the circumstances giving rise to the unreliability is not sufficient to shorten the one-year period. Hint: If you resume your activity after the re-admission, you must at least simultaneously file a business registration with the competent authority. The resumption is to be seen as a new beginning of the practice of the trade. If you have previously been revoked a permit that is legally required for the exercise of the business due to unreliability, you must apply for a permit again before resuming your commercial activity that requires a permit. The same applies if a new permit requirement has been introduced in the meantime.

Sachverhalt

Erforderliche Unterlagen

- Details of the intended activity
- Information on the place of the intended pursuit of the business
- Proof of how you have made a living since the trade ban and whether you have pursued an employee activity
- Certificate of good conduct
- Extract from the Central Trade Register
- Extract from the list of debtors and certificate from the insolvency court (available from the competent district or insolvency court)
- Current certificates: the trade tax, tax offices and social security institutions

Special features in case of payment arrears:

If you had payment arrears at the time of the previous trade ban, then you must present current certificates from the trade tax, tax offices and social security institutions. Such certificates shall contain information on:

- the amount of any remaining arrears, separated by main and ancillary claim
- the period from which any principal claim originates
- repayment agreements made after the trade ban, their completion date, regulations and compliance
- the implementation of compulsory recovery measures, their nature and success

Special features when changing residence: If you have moved after the trade ban at that time, then the certificates from the debtor file of the insolvency court, the tax office and the trade tax office are required from both the current and the competent authorities at the time of the trade ban.

Voraussetzungen

The reasons that led to the prohibition are no longer available. The competent authority must also be able to predict that you will properly carry out your business in the future on the basis of your interim behaviour.

Kosten

The costs are based on the respective administrative fee regulations of the land as well as on the fee statutes of the authorities responsible under state law.

Verfahrensablauf	Submit to the competent authority an informal written or electronic (for example, by e-mail) application for re-authorisation of the commercial activity and the necessary documents. The competent authority will check whether you can be reimbursed for the exercise of your business activity on the basis of your evidence.
