whether the foreign document is recognised as genuine without further proof is decided by the authority in Germany where the document is to be used.

Information and support

Further information on the legalisation procedure can be obtained from the German mission abroad in whose consular district the document was issued. Please note that in some countries there is no German diplomatic mission abroad and the relevant official district is served by a German embassy in the neighbouring country.

Erforderliche Unterlagen

- Original certificate
- Passport or other proof of identity (in case of written application: copy)
- if applicable: written power of attorney for the representative

Note: In addition to the document, also have the translation certified if it is not issued by a sworn interpreter in Germany.

Voraussetzungen

A German authority requires a certified document from abroad as proof of certain facts or circumstances.

Kosten

- Legalisation: procedural fee according to the schedule of fees and expenses
- Apostille: fees and expenses according to the law of the respective foreign state
- Verification within the framework of administrative and legal assistance: depending on the individual case

Verfahrensablauf

If possible, enquire about the exact procedure and how the fees are to be paid at the competent mission abroad before submitting your application.

The application can be made in person at the competent office. Some offices also allow the documents to be sent by post.

Legalisation

If required by the German mission abroad, contact the
