- in the event of reduced earning capacity or
- assistance towards living expenses or
- receive another transfer benefit for which the costs of accommodation have been taken into account in the calculation.

Erforderliche Unterlagen

It is best to contact the responsible office in advance to find out what documents you need. In principle, you must provide the following proof of housing costs or charges:

- about transfer benefits (for example, assistance with living expenses, social benefit, basic security benefits in old age and in the event of reduced earning capacity, benefits under the Asylum Seekers Benefits Act)
- Certificate of earnings for the application for housing benefit,
- proof of increased income-related expenses according to the tax assessment notice,
- current notifications of pension payments of any kind,
- benefits according to the Third Book of the Social Security Code - Employment Promotion (e.g. unemployment benefit I, short-time working allowance, transitional allowance),
- Proof of sick pay and other wage replacement benefits,
- last tax assessment notice (for self-employed persons/traders).

To be on the safe side, please state all income of all household members in cash or cash equivalents, regardless of its source and regardless of whether the income is taxable or not. This will avoid unnecessary queries. The Housing Benefit Office will then check which of the income is creditable. If necessary, other evidence must be enclosed (only if there have been changes within the last approval period):

- Certificate of enrollment (students),
- BAföG notification (students),
- Declaration of monthly allowances from parents during studies,
- Proof of health insurance,
- Proof of pension or life insurance,

Sachverhalt

- Appendix to the application for housing benefit in the case of expenses to meet statutory maintenance obligations,
- Proof of severe disability (if applicable, proof of care allowance payments).
- In the case of foreign nationals from third countries, proof of residence status and duration of residence must be submitted.
- Other EU citizens must submit a certificate of right of residence/EU residence permit and registration with the registration office.

To apply for a rent subsidy, you also need this completed form (only if there have been changes within the last approval period):

- Landlord's certificate (usually provided by the housing benefit authorities)

To apply for the encumbrance allowance, you will also need the following forms/evidence (only if there have been changes within the last approval period):

- Form for determining the debt service charge
- Proof of the debt service charge (borrowed funds certificate, last payment receipt, interest and repayment schedule if applicable)
- Proof of the amount of the purchase price or construction costs (also for modernizations)
- Property tax assessment notice/proof of the amount of ground rent
- If applicable, proof of income from the transfer of rooms and areas to third parties
- Calculation of living space in accordance with DIN 277 or the Living Space Ordinance (WoFIV, building application)
- If applicable, notification of the building subsidy
- Proof of ownership, extract from the land register, purchase contract

Voraussetzungen

As an applicant, you must still be entitled to housing benefit. You are eligible for housing benefit as:

- Tenants of residential property
- Subtenant of living space

Modul

Sachverhalt

- Residents of a cooperative or foundation apartment
- Residents of a residential home (residents of a residential home as defined by the relevant state law; this also includes people with disabilities who are admitted to special forms of accommodation not only temporarily to provide integration assistance)
- tenants with similar rights of use, in particular holders of a tenancy-like permanent right of residence
- Owners of an apartment building (three or more apartments), a commercial building or a business, if you live in this building
- Owners of a detached or semi-detached house in which you live, but which also contains business premises to such an extent that it can no longer be regarded as your own home
- Owners of a full-time agricultural business whose residential part is not separate from the business part
- women who live in women's shelters, even if the remuneration is calculated on a daily basis
- a person who has been assigned to homeless accommodation or third-party accommodation by the homelessness authority, even if the user fee (which is not, for example, calculated according to the number of days or staggered according to adults and children) is paid to the homelessness authority

You are eligible for a housing allowance as:

- Owner of your own home or a condominium,
- owners of a small housing estate,
- Owners of an agricultural sideline,
- Owners of a full-time agricultural property if the residential and commercial parts are separate and a housing benefit calculation can be made for the residential part,
- Owners of a permanent right of residence similar to ownership
- holders of heritable building rights and those who are entitled to the transfer of ownership of the building or apartment or to the transfer or granting of the heritable building right.

The owner of the dwelling must occupy the dwelling and pay the charges for it.

Verfahrensablauf	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • You submit your application for continued benefits in writing using the form provided or by using the online service. You can send the form by post to the housing benefit office responsible for you or hand it in in person. • The authority will check your application for continued benefits and send you a decision. • In the event of continued approval, housing benefit is generally granted for a further twelve months and can be granted for up to 24 months if your income remains relatively constant.
Bearbeitungsdauer	The processing time depends, among other things, on the completeness of your information and the submission of the evidence required for processing the application. Any longer processing times are not at your expense: the entitlement to housing benefit is checked from the day the application is submitted. If you are still entitled to housing benefit, you will not lose any housing benefit.
Frist	As a rule, housing benefit is paid to you from the first of the month (after the end of the previous approval period) if an application for continued benefits is submitted to the Housing Benefit Office within one month of the end of the approval period at the latest.
