As an employer who employs trainees, you must have their vocational training entered in the register of vocational training relationships.

Registration must be applied for from the State Office for Agriculture, Food Safety and Fisheries (LALLF) for professions in agriculture or domestic science.

Volltext

If you employ trainees, you must have the vocational training entered in the register of vocational training relationships. The register of vocational training relationships is kept by the authorities responsible for training. These are, for example

- Chamber of Industry and Commerce,
- Chamber of Crafts,
- other professional chambers.

The register contains all recognized training occupations and records all essential contents of the vocational training contract.

The entry includes the following for each vocational training relationship

1. Surname, first name, date of birth, address of the trainee,
2. Gender, nationality, general school-leaving qualification, previous participation in pre-vocational training or basic vocational training, previous vocational training and previous studies, follow-up contract in the case of recognition of previously completed dual vocational training under this Act or under the Crafts Code, including training occupation,
3. Surname, first name and address of legal representatives,
4. Training occupation including specialization,
5. Vocational training as part of a dual course of study integrating training,
6. Date, month and year of conclusion of the training contract, duration of training, duration of the probationary period, shortening of the training period, part-time vocational training,
