Teaser	If you have another home, for example a second home, secondary home or privately used vacation home, for which no broadcasting fee is yet paid, you must register this home for the broadcasting fee in addition to your main home.
Volltext	If you rent or buy a second or secondary residence in addition to your existing home, you must register it with the Contribution Service. This also applies to vacation homes and caravans that are used exclusively for private purposes and that you use primarily on a fixed location. If you live with several adult persons in the apartment, you can decide for yourself who registers the apartment. If you move into a second or secondary residence for which a broadcasting fee is already paid, you do not need to register for the broadcasting fee. You must register the second or secondary residence from the beginning of the month in which you move into the apartment. The amount of the broadcasting fee and its due date are regulated by law. This means that you must pay the broadcasting fee even if you have not received a special payment request. If you already pay the broadcasting fee for your main residence, you can exempt yourself from the broadcasting fee for the secondary residence. An exemption for the second or secondary residence is also possible if your spouse or registered partner pays
