training or further training.

The residence permit can only be extended if the approval of the Federal Employment Agency is still valid. The Foreigners' Registration Office checks this in an internal procedure and obtains approval again if necessary.

An extension is not possible if this was already ruled out by the immigration authority when the permit was issued or when it was last extended.

The residence permit is limited in time. As a rule, its validity depends on the remaining duration of the training or further education.

If you were obliged to take part in an integration course when your residence permit was issued, you must prove that you have fulfilled this obligation. If you have not yet completed the integration course, the immigration authority may refuse to extend your residence permit or only extend it for one year until you have successfully completed the course or have provided proof that you have been integrated into society and social life in another way.

If you have not yet reached the age of 18, a person entitled to your personal care must agree to the extended stay for the purpose of continuing your vocational training or further education.

You are permitted to work during your qualified vocational training. However, your residence permit can only be extended if the successful completion of your vocational training is not jeopardized by the pursuit of gainful employment.

After successfully completing qualified vocational training, your residence permit can be extended for up to twelve months in order to look for a job.

If your qualified vocational training or further training ends prematurely for reasons for which you are not responsible, you may be given the opportunity to look for another training place for a period of up to six months.

During the validity of a residence permit for vocational training and further education, it is generally possible to switch to another qualified vocational training program. Likewise, if you meet the necessary requirements, you can apply to the immigration authority to obtain a residence permit for employment as a skilled worker, for employment with extensive practical vocational knowledge, for studies or for other purposes to which you are legally entitled (change of purpose).

residence permit (eAT card) is EUR 67.00.

Verfahrensablauf

You must apply for an extension of your residence permit at the foreigners authority responsible for your place of residence before your current residence permit expires.

The procedure is as follows:

- Depending on the foreigners authority and your request, it may be possible to apply via the Internet. Find out whether your foreigners authority offers electronic applications. In the case of an electronic application, the foreigners authority will contact you after receiving your application to arrange an appointment at the foreigners authority. During the appointment, your supporting documents will be checked (please bring the originals with you to the appointment).
- If the application can only be submitted in person, make an appointment with the Foreigners' Registration Office. During the appointment, your application will be accepted and your supporting documents will be checked (bring the originals with you to the appointment).
- If the approval of the Federal Employment Agency needs to be renewed, the Foreigners' Registration Office will usually obtain this in an internal administrative procedure.
- Your residence permit will then either be extended or you will receive a notice of refusal.
- To extend your residence permit, your current electronic residence permit (eAT card) will be renewed. Your fingerprints will be taken at the immigration office for the renewal. You will also have to provide a signature.
- After about six to eight weeks, you can collect the eAT card from the Foreigners' Registration Office. The card must always be collected in person.
- There is a fee for extending the residence permit. The time and form of payment vary depending on the authority.
- The extension of the residence permit is limited in time and is only valid for this purpose of residence.
- If the purpose of your stay changes, you must inform
