Teaser	You can have your residence permit for the purpose of studying extended before it expires if you meet certain requirements.
Volltext	The residence permit for the purpose of studying is a temporary residence permit. You can apply for an extension of the residence permit if you have not yet completed your studies, but will be able to do so within a reasonable period of time. As a rule, the maximum length of stay is ten years. When deciding on the extension of a residence permit for the purpose of studying, the Foreigners' Registration Office may obtain and take into account opinions from the university or other institutions approved for training or further education on matters relating to the study requirements, the course of study, the degree and other academic matters. The same conditions apply for the extension of a residence permit for the purpose of studying as for the granting of a residence permit. In particular, your livelihood should be secured for the duration of your studies.

If your residence permit is extended, it will be limited in time again. The residence permit for the purpose of studying will be extended by at least one year and usually by two years or by the remaining duration of your studies.

If the foreigner is participating in an EU or multilateral program with mobility measures (e.g. ERASMUS+ program of the European Union) or if an agreement between two or more higher education institutions applies to the foreigner, the residence permit will be extended by at least two years. If the studies last less than two years, it will be extended by the duration of the studies.

As a rule, the residence permit cannot be extended if this was already ruled out when the residence permit was issued or last extended.
