responsible office.

Some authorities and offices provide application forms.

The competent authority primarily checks what effects a permit would have on the use of the road.

The intended special use must not interfere too much with the public use of others, cause a noise nuisance to pedestrians or anyone living in the street (residents), pollute the street excessively, or

Detract from the cityscape.

After your application has been reviewed, you will receive a notice of approval or a notice of denial.

The responsible body limits the permit in time or grants it revocably. It may attach conditions and requirements to it.
