Volltext	Legalization is associated with a not inconsiderable expenditure of time and money. For this reason, it has been partially declared dispensable by international treaties. These agreements include the Convention on the Exemption of Foreign Public Documents from Legalization (Hague Apostille Convention). The apostille then takes the place of legalization as proof of authenticity. This is issued by the competent internal authority of the state that issued the document. Involvement of its foreign representation in Germany is then no longer necessary. In addition, there are also conventions with the consequence of mutual recognition of the respective deeds, so that public deeds are regarded as genuine without further ado (Belgium, Denmark, France, Greece, Italy; Luxembourg, Austria and Switzerland).
