| Volltext                   | Groundwater abstraction for domestic use, farm operations, watering livestock or in small quantities for a temporary purpose does not require a permit under water law. It merely needs to be reported to the authorities in good time before it begins.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
