Teaser	Have you moved into a second home in a town or municipality in Rhineland-Palatinate? If so, it is possible that this may levy a second home tax. It is best to seek advice.
Volltext	The cities and municipalities in Rhineland-Palatinate are responsible for deciding whether and to what extent they make use of the option to levy a second residence tax. The tax is levied on the possession of an additional dwelling (second or secondary residence) in addition to a main residence. (If a resident has several dwellings in Germany, one of these dwellings is the main residence. A secondary residence is any other dwelling. The law stipulates that the main residence is the dwelling primarily used. In cases of doubt, the predominantly used dwelling is the place where the main focus of the resident's life is located).

Kosten

Due to the local authority's decision-making powers, there are no uniform regulations on the amount of the second home tax; these can be found in the respective local authority second home tax statutes. As a rule, the amount of second home tax to be paid is based on the annual net cold rent (rent excluding heating and ancillary costs). For example, 10 % of this is levied as second home tax.

Many statutes also contain the following exemplary regulation:

If you own the apartment or if it is given to you free of charge or below the local rent, the local rent according to the local rent index is applied instead.

Verfahrensablauf

Due to municipal decision-making powers, no uniform regulations apply; these can be found in the respective municipal second home tax statutes.

Exemptions from the tax liability may apply in the following cases, for example:

- Persons up to the age of 18 who have a secondary residence for the purpose of school or vocational training.
- Married persons or persons in a registered civil partnership (LPartG) who do not live permanently separated from their family or partner, whose main residence is in another municipality and who have a secondary residence in the municipality for professional reasons and spend most of their time in the area of the municipality
- A secondary residence does not exist if the owner uses it exclusively as an investment (rental).
- There is no taxable secondary residence if apartments are made available by independent welfare organizations (e.g. retirement homes) for therapeutic reasons, either for a fee or free of charge. The same applies to dwellings provided by public and independent youth welfare organizations for educational purposes.
