Depending on the change, the registration authority will issue you with

- new registration documents and
- new stamp stickers for your vehicle in the event of a license plate change.

You can visit your registration authority in person or appoint a representative.

The owner data is also entered in the registration certificate part II. You must therefore enter any name changes there, for example. You are also obliged to indicate technical changes to the vehicle that change the EC vehicle class, engine capacity, rated power, fuel type or energy source.

When the vehicle is taken out of service, re-registered or when the type of license plate is changed, the official license plates must be invalidated by the registration office by removing the official seal stickers.

Note: When registering a vehicle that is still registered abroad, the foreign license plates must be presented. In the event of theft or loss of a license plate, any remaining license plate must be presented.

Attention: A vehicle with a license plate that has been removed may only be put into operation on public roads in exceptional cases in connection with the registration.

If a test or seal sticker becomes unusable or is lost (e.g. car wash), you should replace it immediately or have a new sticker affixed to avoid unnecessary trouble.
