Teaser	Have you been prohibited from practicing your trade because of unreliability? Then you can apply for the restoration of your commercial activity after one year, exceptionally even earlier. Find out more here.
Volltext	The competent authority has banned you from practicing your trade due to unreliability. However, you would now like to resume your commercial activity. After one year, or earlier if there are special reasons, the authority may allow you to resume your trade upon application. The prerequisite is that you can prove to the competent authority that the reasons that led to the prohibition of your trade no longer exist. Based on your conduct in the meantime, the competent authority must also be able to predict that you will carry out your trade properly in the future. As a rule, you can only be re-authorized after one year. This period is considered appropriate in order to demonstrate to the authorities that the reasons for unreliability have ceased to exist by changing your lifestyle. For overriding reasons - for example economic or structural policy reasons - the exercise of the trade may be permitted again earlier in exceptional cases. This applies, for example, in the event that the resumption of the trade creates additional jobs or enables creditors of your business to reduce their debts by generating income in your business to repay debts. The mere cessation of the circumstances justifying unreliability is not sufficient to shorten the one-year period.

Erforderliche Unterlagen

- written or electronic application for permission to carry on the trade you wish to resume, with further details
- Details of the location of the intended trade
- Proof of how you have made a living since the trade was banned and whether you have been employed
- Application for a certificate of good conduct for submission to an authority (Leika key: 99049001001000)
- Application for an extract from the central trade register for submission to an authority (Leika key: 99052002109000)
- Extract from the debtor register and certificate from the insolvency court (available from the competent local or insolvency court)
- Current certificates: from the trade tax offices, tax offices and social insurance agencies

Special features in the event of payment arrears:

- If you had payment arrears at the time of the previous business prohibition, you must submit current certificates from the trade tax offices, tax offices and social insurance institutions. These certificates must contain information about
 - the amount of any outstanding arrears, broken down into principal and ancillary claims
 - the period from which the possible main claim originates
 - any repayment agreements made after the trade ban, their date of conclusion, regulations and compliance
 - the implementation of compulsory collection measures, their nature and success special features in the event of a change of residence:

- If you have moved after your business was prohibited, you will need certificates from the debtor

Hinweise	If you resume your activity after being re-authorized, you must at least submit a business registration to the competent authority at the same time. The resumption is to be assessed as a new start of the trade. If you have previously had a permit revoked due to unreliability, which is legally required for the exercise of the trade, you must apply for a new permit before resuming your commercial activity requiring a permit.

Modul	Sachverhalt
	The same applies if a new permit requirement has been introduced in the meantime.
Rechtsbehelf	In Lower Saxony, preliminary proceedings are abolished by § 8a Nds. AG VwGO. Therefore, no objection is admissible, but rather administrative court action must be brought directly.
Kurztext	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Commercial re-authorisation • One year after the implementation of a trade ban (professional ban), the trader can apply for re-authorisation. • Exceptionally, an application may also be submitted earlier (for overriding reasons of an economic or structural nature: e.g. contribution to reducing unemployment by creating jobs in the trader's business; Creditor's interests: debt reduction, etc.). • Prerequisite: Proof that the reasons that led to the prohibition of the exercise of the trade no longer exist and a positive prognosis regarding a future proper exercise of the trade. • Trade can also be partially permitted (if the reliability is restored in relation to parts of the prohibited activity) • Resumption of commercial activity requires business registration (new start of the trade) • If necessary. Permission must be applied for (e.g. if a permit requirement has been introduced in the meantime, or if permission has been revoked before resumption).
