Teaser	If you, as a recognized breeding association or recognized breeding company, wish to make changes to an existing breeding program, you must notify the competent authority.
Volltext	You must notify the competent authority of any planned changes to your approved breeding program. In doing so, refer to the approval granted to you for the previous breeding program. Make it clear at which points of the breeding program you wish to make changes. You can submit your changes in writing or - if possible - online to the competent authority, which will then review them. If the authority raises no objections within 90 days of your submission, your changes are deemed to have been accepted. As a breeding association or company, when making changes to breeding programs, you must also ensure that the farms participating in your programs are informed of the changes in a timely and transparent manner as soon as they are approved.
Erforderliche Unterlagen	Approval of the existing breeding program to which changes are to be made. The documents must be submitted in writing, either on paper or in electronic form. Required documents:
