Teaser	Experts for packaging disposal established in other EU/EEA countries who only wish to carry out expert activities in Germany temporarily and occasionally can apply for confirmation of sufficient professional qualification.
Volltext	In order to guarantee their obligation to take back and recycle such packaging, producers of packaging subject to system participation do not need to participate in an officially established take-back system under certain conditions if they first provide evidence, in the form of an expert certificate, that a suitable sector-specific collection structure has been set up at all the collection points supplied and that the sales packaging collected in these structures will be recycled in future in accordance with the Verpackungsgesetz (sector solution). In addition, manufacturers of packaging subject to system participation generally have to submit annual declarations of completeness for the sales and secondary packaging placed on the market for the first time in the previous calendar year. Alternatively (instead of a tax consultant, for example), they can also have them checked and certified by an expert within the meaning of the Packaging Act. Furthermore, (take-back) systems must document the recycling of the collected packaging on a calendar year basis (proof of volume flow). The proof of volume flow must be checked and confirmed by a registered expert.

These obligations are fulfilled if only the experts listed by the Central Agency in the register of inspectors are commissioned with the inspection and certification. These experts include, on the one hand, experts who have been publicly appointed for packaging disposal in accordance with Section 36 of the German Industrial Code. However, such experts also include experts established in other EU/EEA countries who only wish to carry out the expert activities provided for in the Packaging Act in Germany on a temporary and occasional basis if their sufficient professional qualification for this has been verified and confirmed by the public body responsible for the public appointment of such experts.

Erforderliche Unterlagen
