examination authorization certificate for the first follow-up examination if they have not yet reached the age of 18 one year after taking up their first employment. Applications for further follow-up examination authorization certificates must be submitted as required.

The initial examination must be carried out within the last 14 months before starting work and the first follow-up examination must be carried out between the 10th and 12th month after starting work. The certificate confirming that the initial examination has been carried out must be submitted to the company before the start of employment. The certificate confirming that the first follow-up examination has been carried out must be submitted one year after taking up the first job, but no later than fourteen months after taking up the first job. Further follow-up examination authorization certificates can be applied for after a further year, if the examination was carried out more than 14 months previously or for supplementary or extraordinary follow-up examinations, which can be arranged by examining doctors in special cases.

If young people are employed on a marginal basis or for no longer than 2 months in light work that is not likely to be detrimental to their health (e.g. vacation work, internships), no medical examinations are required.
