As a continuous shift operation, you can request longer daily working hours to achieve additional days off. You can achieve this if the longer working hours mean that employees have more consecutive days off. As a seasonal or campaign business, you can apply for longer daily working hours if there is an exceptional workload that you cannot handle through other organizational measures. The extension of working hours will usually be compensated by a corresponding reduction at other times. In order to protect the health of your employees, daily working hours of more than 12 hours are not permitted for continuous shift operations as well as for seasonal and campaign operations. As a construction or assembly site, you can apply for a longer daily working time beyond 8 hours without special requirements if the place of work is far from the place of residence of the employees and employees are guaranteed a correspondingly longer rest period at their place of residence for the extended working hours.
