Volltext	For preschool children from six months of age, the youth music school offers parent-child groups, early musical education, choirs, dance and rhythm, music therapy and bridging courses as a transition to instrumental lessons. Children aged 5-10 can learn many musical instruments with us and sing, dance and play in a band or orchestra together with other children. For those aged 11-25, there are also subjects such as composition, Afghan music and world music. There are also many band, ensemble, orchestra and choir options for making music together. For particularly gifted children and young people, we have support options such as performance classes, remedial classes and preparatory courses for university studies. We have three choir schools for children aged 4 and over. In the St. Michaelis Singing School, the Hamburg Girls' Choir or the New Hamburg Boys' Choir, your children can remain in a musical community for many years. The musical theater offerings with singing, acting and dance begin from the age of 6 with the musical theater for children. The musical theater orientation level builds on this. After that, your children can decide whether they want to go to the Youth Opera Academy or the Musical Academy for Teens. At the orchestra school, your children learn to play together with a string or wind instrument from a very early age. After a few years, they can then play in the YouMe! youth symphony orchestra, the Hamburg wind orchestra or the "Think Big!" big band. If you as a parent would like to play in the orchestra with your children, the "Elbphilharmonie Family Orchestra" in cooperation with the youth music school might be an option. In the Jazz, Rock, Pop department there are many bands of different styles for your children. The courses are inclusive and all children and young people can register.
